

Worried about the union? You aren't the only one.

“ I have no trust or faith in the union or its representatives to do right by those of us who expressed pause. They have also not given a single convincing argument for why this union is necessary, making the thought of a loss of benefits all the more distressing.”
– email to HR

“ It feels Penn Libraries did all they could in terms of listening to our complaints, making a concrete change, and hiring someone we all trusted. From there, our new leadership has given us everything we have asked for. There was a palpable positive change here until this recent news.”
– email to HR

“ I am incredibly frustrated that this vote is happening and feel many of my colleagues are not thinking through the permanence of the changes and the potential loss.”
– submitted online
